The Kingdom of Night Ash Forest covers an area of 1000 thousand square miles. Of this, 52% (522 thousand sq. miles) is arable land, and 47% (477 thousand sq. miles) is wilderness.

The subterranean capital city The Darkwell covers an area of approximately 2356 acres, with a total population of 143 thousand beings who move between them as the seasons change.

The Kingdom of Night Ash Forest has 1600 active surface level castles and 446 ruined surface level castles. Of these, 1280 castles and 290 ruined are in what is considered to be civilized lands, and 320 castles and 156 ruined are in the wilderness, along the borders, etc.

Geography

The Kingdom of the Night Ash Forest is characterized by its extremely large ash trees with telltale leaves with edges that glow like embers. Due to the burrowing nature of the Unseelie that live in the forest the surface level is mostly untouched nature with well-hidden burrows around the kingdom which lead to the Unseelie subterranean dwellings, with the exception of the Aen Teg, Changeling, Datanlolum Dwarves, Hags, as well as Tooth fairies, Bone Fey and Beldams.

Flora, Fauna, and Ecology

Trees

Night Ash Trees, a type of tree found in the Eastern part of Tir ná nÓg. They are the namesake of the kingdom they are located in and have mystical properties.

History

This kingdom was founded by the Fey cast away by Albríhron's Kingdom of the Golden Oak Forest, eventually, a powerful Archfey family took charge of the kingdom. During this period the mixing of racial blood took place and the royal family consisted of Archfey with Black Dragon heritage with one of the supporting families having Phoenix heritage which would eventually marry into royalty properly. This kingdom has regularly clashed with the Golden Oak Forest Kingdom.
